King Dementia Sat On The Toilet Last Night And Dropped Many Decrees!

Last night, something came over Donald Trump, and it was probably gas. Also pain and frustration that people seem to be respecting his authority a little less each day, plus a feeling that his dreams of being dictator king of the world are slipping away.

So he got to making a flurry of stupid Hitler executive orders, we guess to make him feel better. Are they are all going to court for being facially illegal and unconstitutional? Of course!

Let's briefly consider what Trump did to America without its consent last night.

Donald Trump, the guy who definitely could pick out countries besides Russia if you pointed at them on a globe, is trying the travel ban thing again.

Trump announced his new "Muslim and other dark-skinned people my white supremacist ass is scared of" ban in the Oval Office with crocodile tears for the victims of the antisemitic attack in Boulder, Colorado, which was committed by an Egyptian national, saying we have to stop things like that from happening. See what you notice about the list of countries on the new ban:

Afghanistan, Myanmar, Chad, Republic of Congo, Equatorial Guinea, Eritrea, Haiti, Iran, Libya, Somalia, Sudan and Yemen. Partial bans have also been placed on nationals from Burundi, Cuba, Laos, Sierra Leone, Togo, Turkmenistan and Venezuela.

Is any of those Egypt? Nope. Did Stephen Miller just put his dick on a map of the world and use it like a ouija board, letting the ghost of Hitler guide it to places where the residents definitely aren't white? Well it could have happened like that, but they also might have turned it into a pin-the-tail-on-the-donkey game for Old President Racist Pigtrash.

Responses from around the world came swiftly: "The truth is being in the United States is a big risk for anybody, not just for Venezuelans," said Venezuelan Interior Minister Diosdado Cabello, who also used the word "fascist." Amnesty International called it "discriminatory, racist, and downright cruel."

Then there was this:

Shawn VanDiver, president of the Afghan refugee advocacy group #AfghanEvac, referred to the ban as "political theater" and "a second Muslim Ban, dressed up in bureaucracy." [...]

"To include Afghanistan — a nation whose people stood alongside American service members for 20 years — is a moral disgrace. It spits in the face of our allies, our veterans, and every value we claim to uphold," #AfghanEvac's VanDiver added.

Spitting in the face of veterans? Shitting on American values at home and abroad? Sounds like typical Donald Trump.

We recently wrote about how it's going to become increasingly untenable for the World Cups or the Olympics to be held in the United States in 2026 and 2028. This only amplifies the need for people and nations to announce boycotts, to pressure those in power to move all American World Cup matches to free countries, and to probably cancel the Olympics altogether if a suitable replacement city can't be found on the fly.
